

Project Update: Week of August 27th, 2018

For the week of August 27th the construction project continued with work on the intersection of Penn Avenue and 82nd Street.

On August 27th, Knox Ave was closed between American Blvd and W 81st St, but both intersections remained open to traffic. This closure will last until mid-November. Pavement removal on Knox Ave began this week, between American Blvd and 200 feet south of 81st St, leaving a gravel driving surface at the intersection of Knox Ave and 81st St.

You will continue to see more materials hauled into the construction staging area as preparation is underway for the rest of the project.

The lane restrictions currently in place on Penn Ave will continue through September and possibly into October.

Advanced warning signs will be placed on the nearby streets one week ahead of any work.

Please see the map below:

